

Customer.move()

This function calculates each customer's distance from every store. The distance is calculated in steps. Euclidean distance was first used but distance in steps was seen as more realistic.

This function makes use of the `distance_from_store()` function and returns the store number the customer is closest to.

customers.shop ()

